UnHolie Molie What pure crap conditions for trying to get an Appln on

Most Guys are just staying Ready-at-the-Throttlefor any window they can grab to get another tank out.

Some NY Pals are up against the same weather-ugliness ... Alicandro is telling them to get full-rate Merivon[$35] or Luna Tranquility[$39] or InspireSuper[$22] tank mixed with a big dose of CaptoZeb. Those costs I mentioned are approximates....

And Yup---Thanks very much for the reminder Joe. You are correct. We are not supposed to use Syllit FL now ...we are to be done with that by late Pink.

My bad. The label tells us we can do 2 applns of 1.5 Pt. each, and to make the last appln at Pink..... not sure why...?? My guess is something to do with russeting...??

This crap weather causes either spending a bunch of extra dollars on re-covering sprays, or scab-control-failures resulting in fruit-ugliness..... Alicandro says 'choose one.'

This is also causing some concern about pollination. Only the BumbleBees work in this crap.

We are watching closely....and we might see some guys running with a 1 pint/acre rate Perlan to help insure crop-set.

Perlan is the PGR we use for 'typiness' on Red Dels @ 1-2 Pints-Ac...depending on TRV.....
Perlan = Cheap.

Good Luck Guys and Gals ...
