Fruit Ridge Notes - Thursday - December 21 - 2017 - Shortest Day of the Year

Grand Wishes from Fruit Ridge Avenue

When you see the "Q&A" it means Question & Answer Discussion Meaning someone replied with a Comment or Concern or Question referencing something I mentioned in an earlier FRNotes.....

Q&A Yup....The New 2018 MSU-E-154 calls ActiGard a "systemic inducer of host plant resistance"Recommended for significant suppression of Bacterial Diseases like F.Blight in Pears and Applesand like AngularLeafSpot and Bacterial LeafSpot and BacterialSpeck in 60-75 different Vegetables and Blues and Melons and Citrus. I do really like this 'Concept'... I do really like this stuff.... It works very much like the "Phites" work for us, but without the Nutritions SeaWeed and Zn and Potassium that we get with our Formula-II-SW Phite....

But....Here's What I seriously Do Not Like It Retails anywhere from $35 - $45 per-oz....Use Rate= 1-2 oz.-Ac.== So like up to apprx $80-Acre....on Your bigger-Full-Production-Trees. I am very seriously never recommending stuff priced this way.

So.... What we actually do is find the same thing only better ...and also sourcing it way cheaper for everybody to efficiently use.

So.... Lookn at the Agrian-Web-Site.... the "A.I." of the above-mentioned-product has 80+ Characters in the Name.... which the Researchers simply call Salicylic Acid....

Now--Here's the Thing ... Our "SAver 2-0-10" which includes the HiTec-Inerts has the SA in it[Salicylic Acid]enough in 1 Qt. 'SAver' to be equal to the 1 oz rate of the Super-Pricey Stuff above.... So...$6.22 compared to $40Is that a NoBrainer or what ??? And the $6.22-SAver really works.... Plus SAver has some very cool Nutrients in the Formula.

Closin at Noon Tomorrow....Back 8am Wednesday the 27th.....
